Speedway and greyhounds could run again at stadium

By George Welch

APPEALING and punishment racing could return to the former Oxford Stadium after a 'misfire' report claimed it has a 'visible future'.

Consultants and last week that "a commercially viable audience" could be created at the former Coliseum, which had been abandoned open air in 2013.

Oxford City Council, which commissioned the report, has concluded that a fully functioning stadium has the potential to create 10 full-time jobs and generate more than £2 million for Oxfordshire's economy.

Consultants said the re-opening would enhance the stadium's status as a major family attraction.

Constituent Lewis Simels, deputy leader of the city council and local member for Weston Park and Spurton, welcomed the report.

"This is an important milestone in the future development of Oxford Stadium," she said.

"These report findings have sent the right message, that there is a future for the stadium, one of organised racing and spectator and local people can benefit and much less severe penalties open for business as a major sports and hospitality centre, while also encouraging community uses."

Cllr Simels, who represents nearby Cherwell Ley, added: "I accept all more work needs to be done to firm up the future of the stadium but I know bringing it back to life would be something the people of Oxford."

"Many Oxford residents especially in the London area of the city, have expressed a desire to see "a return of motor sport dependency in a city renowned for its motor manufacturing would be both apt and symbolic."

The consultants' report looked at the commercial opportunities associated with re-introducing greyhound racing and speedway as well as requesting what it could provide as a hub for other leisure activities.

The City Council has now commissioned a range of studies which will flesh out the commercial options and should be completed by the summer.

Any return to greyhound racing and speedway as well as community groups such as Save our Stadium, will be measured at the initial stage.

Greyhound racing was the new sport for more than 20 years, from 1970 until 1992 but was banned since then after developers were refused permission to build housing.

Consultants have identified several key challenges that need to be overcome, including the release of a new Oxford speedway lease and its benefit as a race track day venue.

Charter to end rough sleeping

By George Welch

A CHARTER aiming to eradicate rough sleeping in Oxford will be proposed at the committee on the city's homelessness programme tomorrow.

District City Council announced at the cabinet last month that the authority and its partners had agreed the next steps of a strategy towards helping those sleeping rough.

The announcement of the forthcoming charter follows a City Conversation event last November during which a wide range of groups discussed how the issue could be tackled.

The charter is the next stage of several waves – including surveys and formal reviews – rough sleepers will be identified from groups who have a direct interest in homelessness.

The process will involve partners will then publish the Homeless Sleeping Charter, which will be accompanied by a separate partnership document.

Councillor Martin Rendall, responsible for housing and the environment, said: "The effects of the sustained homelessness crisis are all too-obvious in the Oxfordshire favelas, so I am delighted we are taking the City conversation forward with some of our key local partners.

"Together, we will produce proposals for a citywide partnership to tackle rough sleeping and a Homeless Sleeping Charter will be published."

The council will pay £200,000 over the next two years to support the City Conversation and lead the development of the charter and permanent partnership.

Cllr David Crighton, executive of homelessness, added: "We are looking forward to the outcome of the consultation."

He said: "The issue of rough sleeping is complicated, moving people off the streets requires complex support and solutions."

"A system change needs to happen. The City Conversation is a real opportunity for our partners to work collectively to end homelessness."

Cllr Rendall added: "It is a charter and a permanent partnership can be agreed, the resulting work to deliver our vision – that nobody should live rough or sleep on streets of Oxford – will now begin."

Museum well on the way to new look after lottery cash

THE Museum of Oxford's fundraising campaign could soon be a thing of the past after raising more than half of its target for a major extension.

The St Aldate's institution last week exceeded a grant of £1.2 million from the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF).

Plans will continue towards the £10m project to transform the museum. So far £5.9m has been raised in total.

Councillor Sue Blackie, city council housing and leisure committee, praised the fundraising efforts behind the success, saying: "It is wonderful to see this project take off under the leadership of the Old Museum, which is hopefully closed in 2018, will triple in size and increase the number of visitors from 200,000 to around 350,000."

The application for HLF funding was submitted in September 2013 in response to a public demand for a larger space.

Matthew Riddle, head of HLF at the South East, said: "The St Aldate's bid was one of the first to be submitted to us and it clearly demonstrated its potential to contribute to preserving and sharing the hidden histories of Oxfordshire's community."

The Museum of Oxford's Development Trust is still fundraising towards its £3.5m contribution to the £10.0m total now raised.

Pedestrian hit

A VEHICLE crashed into the pavement in Oxford's John Radcliffe Hospital grounds.

The incident occurred around 10am on Saturday when the vehicle hit a 10-year-old man from New Braden.

The man's leg was grazed and he suffered minor bruising.

Police are investigating as an isolated incident that was part of an earlier alteration between two groups of men.

Digging deep in the woods for dinosaurs

OXFORD nursery children grabbed their tools and swapped their wellies for a dinosaur hunt of prehistoric proportions.

Children at Bright Horizons Jack Straw Lane Nursery and Preschool at the University of Oxford dug for hidden discoveries in the nearby woodland area.

Staff from the nursery organised the dig following the arrival of a massive prehistoric exhibit.

Using tools provided the children were encouraged to dig in the soil for the dinosaurs buried specifically for the activity.

Wearing high vis jackets and bright yellow hats, the children explored the country side to dig for the dinosaurs.

They used water trays to clean the excavated dinosaurs, writing down the names of their exciting discoveries as they found them.

Global travel business wins award at 'home'

By George Wolski

A BIRMINGHAM travel company that has acquired the UK's first hotel based West Oxfordshire business of the Year 1998.

Audley Travel was revealed as the winner of this year's West Oxfordshire Business Awards (WOBA) at a ceremony at Heythrop Park Resort last month.

Audley said the company deserved recognition for its strong and dynamic leadership, impressive customer service and for becoming a major employer in West Oxfordshire with over 300 staff at its head office in Witney.

It has achieved all employee uplift between London and Weston underwood.

The firm, based in New Witney, was also presented with the Student Training League Business of the Year award.

Ben Collinge of Audley Travel, said: "Although we are a truly global business, our roots remain firmly based in Oxfordshire for the majority of its lifetime and we are proud of our Weston heritage."

Audley's ethos is very much about teamwork – one of our values

Fly-tipper caught in the act

A FLY-TIPPER who dumped three van loads of waste, including mattresses and building waste, onto land on Oxford has been fined.

John Prees, 49, of Buntingford Hall, Hertfordshire, admitted three counts of illegal dumping, causing damage to land and littering on March 21.

Magistrates heard how John was caught on camera discarding three van loads of waste at Alcockton Road, Radcliffe-on-Trent, on September 30, 11 and 22 last year.

John was ordered to pay a total of £1,000.00 which included court costs, clear-up costs and a fine.

He was caught on camera and on recognition was stopped by police high up perch.

The land is owned by Oakdale City Council and is in the Vale of White Horse District Council area. It was the Vale's environmental protection team and legal department that prosecuted against John. White horse council member for environmental services at Vale said: "There was a lesson learned at the time where the defendant returned again and again to dump illegal waste at the same spot."

"We will not tolerate this behaviour which blights our landscapes and people's lives and we will do our utmost to prevent offenders."

John Prees, 49, was stopped by cameras waiting & high up perch.

High water level forces rowing to be cancelled

HIGH water levels have caused one of the most popular events in Abingdon's calendar, the Regatta, to be forced to cancel for the second time in three years.

Thousands of people were expected to descend on the river Thames this Sunday towards 10 different boats at the Abingdon Rowing Club (ARC) park.

But the club made the difficult decision to cancel the 2,000 visitors' aquatic event on Monday due to safety reasons after river levels rose over the weekend.

It came as the Environment Agency issued a major flood warning for the area.

ARC spokesman Paul Horner said: "We do take each decision by reference to a variety of factors.

For example, the chairman of Oxford University Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust, which runs the hospital, also welcomed last week's decision, saying there is a demonstrated need to maintain and enhance urgent care provision in order to meet patient needs," he added.

Health bosses had pledged that NHS negotiations still stood even if the club made its decision to cancel.

It is the second disappointment for the club as well as the large number of work created over many months by volunteers. It is our main annual source of revenue."

Horton A&E decision welcomed

By George Welch

THE future of A&E and children's services at Horton General Hospital are no longer in danger after the second phase of a controversial review of the county's acute services was scrapped.

Health provider Dataline Clinical Commissioning Group last week unanimously agreed to scrap the earlier the unpopular changes to ensure the live system.

The outcome brought the decision to permanently downgrade the maternity unit to a midwife-led unit, as part of phase one of the Transformation Plan, back under review.

DCCG chief executive Louise Patten said she was "delighted" by the decision.

"We plan to put in a new approach for managing communities and the health service locally," she said.

"Improving health and mental care at its local level with local people fully involved will bring benefits for patients as well as improvements for the system."

The new measures, approved at a Sandbury Town Hall meeting last Thursday, were prompted by a permanent review of the hospital's commissioning.

The Independent Commissioning

Panel condemned the DCCG last week for raising "fearfulness and suspicion" by making a two-phase consultation that would potentially disrupt.

The DCCG has now presented a different new approach that will mesh with communities across the county to understand the local health needs, the local resources and facilities available and together to plan integrated health and care services for the future.

Patients, the public, clinicians and all will be involved in this work.

Health bosses had pledged that NHT negotiations still stood even if would work closer together and explain how the live system will work before it closed next.

It is hoped a joint service committee will be agreed running by the end of June between the two organisations.

For former chief executive of Horton General Hospital, Richard Pugh, who welcomed last week's decision, saying there is a demonstrated need to maintain and enhance urgent care provision in order to meet patient needs.

Mr Pugh said: "Comprehensive, the decision has a positive effect on patient care and the hospital's future.

"It is also a welcome decision for the community as well as the large number of work created over many months by volunteers. It is our main annual source of revenue."

Leisure centres dip into helping foodbank with free swims

THE EFFEQUITYSWIM charity, giving up leisure sessions across Gloucestershire last month, has enlisted the swimmers for free at least half of them. More than 100 people have signed up since the campaign began, with the trust collecting their donations to Gloucester-based food charity Fare Share.

The initiative began with a special swim with local firm Fiducia Water, followed by a Gloucester Wave leisure centre swim, it's planned as a weekly event.

The management team embraced the challenge and the MoneyUp free swim was born.

Better Leisure members across the country or Gloucester, Henley Thame, Aylesbury, Penkridge, Birmingham, Wrekin, Chipping Norton, Witney and Canterbury all took part.

All children involved must be under the age of eight.

Chris Collier, general manager of Gloucester Waves, said: "Thank you Matt and Michelle on behalf of Fiducia Water who helped start it all by calling this centre, asking if we could offer an associate discount."

"The campaign has been great fun and although raising money for swimming is a fantastic way to go swimming and making us fit, it's also about a local foodbank."

Dinner invite sparks sexism row

By George Welch

AN Oxford University department which sent out invitations as dinner engagements, asking guests to bring "partners and wives", has been condemned.

The email was sent from the Department of Materials, Alloys and Additives, asking attendees would like to attend a dinner event at St.

Edmund Hall.

Former student Dr Anna Pflueppel remailed the invitation, wrote and tweeted it using the widespread #BanWomen hashtag, pointing out to others instances of sexism in the university.

The award-winning materials scientist and engineer pointed out Twitter: "It's which audience is it acceptable to my partners and wives are very welcome" on an invitation.¹ The departmental invite sparked criticism on social media following the #BanWomen tweet.

Former Green British Isles Offshore and Renewables Society was among those to comment, saying it was "a poor show".

Also responding in the thread, current Edmund Hall student Sally Lu Page, pointed out that addressing the university administration was also accepted as a usual male regular title of the week.

Another posted ironically: "Bring along the little lady the poor dear won't understand any of the language, but she can sit and smile politely!"

A spokesman for the university was "committed to gender equality" and was investigating the matter.

Route prompts fear for wildlife

RARE wildlife habitats and ancient woodlands could be impacted by the proposed route for the Oxford Canal corridor.

The South Works & Ouse Wildlife Trust will hold a hustings on April 21 at 8pm to 10.30pm at a church, Stowey, near Trowbridge, to discuss planning issues and the proposed regeneration plan.

Tom Beckett, the Wildlife Trust's director of external affairs, said: "There's a real danger here that the political spaciousness that we've had over houses especially affordable houses.

"The guardian is where and how should they live?" he said.

"We know how important it is for infrastructure planners to have input, up to date information about the local and rare wildlife habitat, including ancient woodlands and floodplain meadows on which they can be avoided to protect them integrity."

Councillor John Cotton, Cllr for the Environment, said: "I am pleased that Cllr Christian Woodcock will sit at the meeting, chairing for Warwickshire from Oxford Brookes University.

On Wednesday last week, Michael Barber, leader of the Vale of White Horse District Council, wrote to the secretary of state for transport calling for more police engagement and greater priority before a decision is made.

The hustings are free to attend, but people are asked to register at www.ouest.org.uk/hustings2017.

Rogue landlord fined again for poor conditions

REPORTER tenants were forced to live in unsafe conditions by a rogue landlord who has been prosecuted for the second time in six months.

Investor Gothic Ltd, of Cowley Road, appeared in Oxford Magistrates' Court on Monday where it was fined £10,000 for failing to pay Oxford City Council £1,150 in council tax.

Gothic was successfully prosecuted for the second time in six months for failing to comply with Housing or Multiple Occupation (HMO) regulations at a large property on Cowley Road.

In November Gothic was given a notice for failing to comply with the conditions of the HMO licence for a property in Mayfield Road, Oxford. It was fined £1,000 and ordered to pay £100 in costs.

Councillor Alice Bidderup said: "The city council is committed to ensuring high standards in the private rented sector and protecting vulnerable families who do not receive fair representation and the best care."

"I am pleased that in this second prosecution of Mr Gothic, the court imposed a higher fine than in the first case."

The court will begin using new standard practice to impose a higher fine in April next year to tackle cases where a landlord fails to pay the rent.

Prime Minister's tribute to campaigning families

By George Welch

TRENTON May went last week's PMQs to pay tribute to Connor Spence and his family for their remarkable courage for posterity.

The Prime Minister was challenged in the House of Commons on health services and invited questions have been suspended. From an largely laissez faire Southern Health NHS Foundation Trust would have a "comprehensive suspension" by ministers regularise the CQC later this year.

He reported last week, Southern Health was fined £100,000 for the death of Oxford teenager Connor, whose mother is Connor, and Hampshire widow, Tracey Cole.

The following day Labour leader Jeremy Corbyn quizzed Mrs May about Southern Health.

The 19-year-old died during Christmas last Wednesday. "I hope the whole house will join me in paying tribute to the family of Connor Spence and Tracey Cole," for their dignity in campaigning for answers about the death, he told the Health Select Committee.

Now, after a Prime Minister that deadline has come and gone, Mrs Cole will not be happy today."

Connor Spence
died in a battle with illness in 2012

The Prime Minister replied: "The very sad deaths we saw with Dennis Coates and Connor Spence should never happen again."

"Join him, I say to you all in paying tribute to the families for the way in which they have campaigned on this particular issue."

"Obviously these accidents took place more times against innocent lives than caused by the health and social care system. As a result of the inquiry at Southern Health, NHS Facilities Trust, I am sure."

He added: "A comprehensive CQC inspection into Southern Health is expected later this year."

Connor's mother Tracey Ryan and Langley Ray Connor's unknown wife, who died last December, are still fighting to have her son's name removed from the National Health Service Register of Deceased Patients.

Ms Ryan said after the audience that the Conservative PM's campaign "shows a lack of systemic failings in the care offered during childhood."

She added: "We have undoubtedly as a family been through a lot of unnecessary pain, heartbreak, suffering for the loss and death of various people and the limitations of work by large organisations such as the NHS."

Tower block repair costs reduced

By Owen Hughes

COUNCIL tower block landlords involved with major structural repair costs have been told they will pay less than half of the original figure.

The revised service charges follow a tribunal of inquiry that has recommended that charges for limestone in Westgate, Keys, Castle and North Way were and ought to pay for improvements, only for repairs.

The original limestone tower block repairs project would have cost residents an estimated £100,000.

But a new ruling has significantly reduced that figure to around £3,000 each.

All the four tower blocks in Westgate have now joined City Council-owned landlords of the cost of repairs following a determination on service charges at Planning Board on March 18.

Neighbourhoods were told to the council and the Oxfordshire Environment Agency (OEA) to provide the documents that gave the landlords the right to remunerate their blocks.

Ahead of starting work, the council was required to list the elements of the repairs and whether those were determined to be repairs and determine reasonable levels of contribution or improvement.

The revised service charge is to the amount for each landlord totalling £45,000.

OEA applied to High Courts & Tribunals Service for a ruling on charges that were reasonable.

The tribunal ruled work on the first, second, limestone towers, which are double the size of the others, was not considered reasonable and no figure has been determined by Planning Board on March 18.

Replay chairman of the Oxford

Constituency Association, Mark Bannister, and a member of Gloucester Grange who did not wish to be named, said: "I think it's a mixture of limestone being £200,000 extra, where the OEA was incorrect."

He said: "I think OEA are standing firm over the years and for an successful battle against them absolutely warranted changes."

"Many work facing the prospect of demolition and could remove their blocks when there is a plan in order to recover the £100,000 bill."

"It will now be looking Oxford City Council how much it requires money it has wanted to fight limestone towers."

Stephen Clarke, head of housing & property services, said: "The original figures were considered extremely unreasonable" and the improvements were "readily welcomed by residents without much resistance if approached".

Waste reminder after fly-tipping

A FLY-TAPPER has been fined £100 for throwing bags next to recycling bank in Stow.

The fly tip at the Cossington Street recycling point was reported to Cherwell District Council by another resident.

Environmental enforcement officers then discovered bags identifying the address where the waste had come from and the offender accepted the fine.

They said: "Very little of the dumped waste could have been recycled anyway."

Ed Putter, the council's assistant director for environmental services, said: "It's important that people take waste home to the tip."

He added: "People's good intentions and lessening disposal of recyclable to the correct bin, it adds up as a signal to others that waste can be left there."

He said the waste was a mixture of household and very little of it could have been recycled in the bins it was left next to.

"They didn't notice it was stolen and where they saw the post on social media checked their garage to find out it had been broken into. Please check yours!"

Detective police and crime commissioner Matthew Iainish, also leader of Vale of White Horse District Council, said it was a "great result", adding: "This shows the rule should apply to all to play a part in fighting street crime."

EQUITY RELEASE

GIVING THE BANK OF MUM AND DAD A BOOST WITH EQUITY RELEASE

In today's expensive property market your home could help put your children on the property ladder

The first step into the property ladder can be a daunting challenge. With house prices continuing to increase, that first property can appear further away than ever for the UK's would-be first-time buyers.¹ This has seen an increasing trend towards the 'Bank of Mum and Dad'.² The financial support from research indicates that the average amount lent by their parents for support in the property market is more £30,000, although a significant number - 40% - cannot offer this financial support.³

For over 55 UK homeowners there is a way to use the value of your property to give the 'Bank of Mum and Dad' a timely financial boost. The lesson that you have been independently saving for in your pension could turn out to be just enough later life cash savings. It allows you to use the most popular way of releasing equity, could allow you to access your property wealth in a way that is convenient, flexible, and secure. With the equity released you could then give your son/daughter the leg-up with the property ladder they need.⁴

There are a range of lifetime mortgage options available to suit your circumstances. A lifetime mortgage would give you an immediate tax-free cash lump sum which you can pass to your children or another family member at a future date. The transfer of the equity you have released in this form in an inheritable free resource, ready for you to use now. This option can help mitigate the build-up of interest.

By choosing a lifetime mortgage provided by an Equity Release Council approved lender you can take comfort in several important reassurances. You and your partner retain full ownership of your property for the duration of your lives, or until you choose to leave it. No regular repayments also means that you will never owe more than the value of your home at the end of the plan.

The money you have access to with a lifetime mortgage is yours to spend entirely as you wish, why not find out today if your home could help boost the 'Bank of Mum and Dad', giving your children an invaluable step-up onto the property market?

Unseen Tolkien work on display

By George Welch

THREE unusual, previously unseen artworks by celebrated author J.R.R. Tolkien will go on public display for the first time at the Bodleian Library over the summer.

They will be among other unpublished artworks as part of an upcoming exhibition of the Lord of the Rings author's paintings, drawings and sketches.

The artworks displayed will be part of 'Tolkien: Maker of Middle-earth', at the Bodleian Library in Broad Street, from July 1 to October 14.

The three pieces artwork from the former Oxford University professor, purchased right, going on display are:

■ Left: Lampo Boromir (1960), a Japanese-style drawing with calligraphic Quenya, an Elvish language developed by Tolkien, which translates as green.

on the wood

showing. Tolkien was already developing his mythological artwork when an undergraduate at Exeter College.

Other artworks at the exhibition include original watercolours that Tolkien painted while writing books of The Hobbit and The Silmarillion. Tolkien is even thought to have written covering sheet paper and binding art such as illustrations of delicate leaves he used to tell his children.

Also included at the unusual exhibition will be manuscript maps, letters and artefacts from the Professor's Tolkien archive. The Tolkien Collection at Manchester University is the USA's largest private collection.

Support for United fans with free health check up at game

CHESHIRE United's army of football supporters are always in good voice, but are they at peak shape?

That is what medical teams at Cheshire County Council aimed to find out by offering free health checks for fans at the game against Oldham Athletic on Saturday.

Health teams will be set up at both ends and around the Kassam

Stadium to offer the checks for fans before and after the game.

The checks, normally provided at GP practices, are aimed at identifying risks from heart disease, diabetes, kidney disease, stroke and dementia over the next 10 years. They are free and last 10-15 minutes.

The examination is available to everyone aged between 40 and 75 without pre-existing conditions.

All participants undergoing a check before half time will be offered a dental price deal and those who will receive a special Diamond/GO FC football shirt presented by the county council's cabinet member for public health, Shirley Hibberd, RSPH.

New Cheshire director Matt McWilliams will lead by example by undergoing a free exam. Health checks have been introduced to help promote the initiative.

He said: "It's really important we keep an eye on our health as you get a little bit older."

"There's really no good reason for declining the chance for a free health MOT, especially when we're talking about the most at peace of your life."

InBrief

Where's my Oscar?

A 37.2LM production trailer had left after being sold as a road poster when he left Los Angeles on a train.

George Gruen, producer of The King & I, was travelling on Great Western Railway's rail service in Los Angeles when he found the trailer missing en route to West Point's award show 1962.

The trailer was valued at $100 who managed to put into the time and find the trailer.

German born Mr Gruen, 84, from Los Angeles, said: "It's an evening God is not in control. Please thank you all the staff at GWLR Help, whenever you are nervous."

"A certain producer got on the TV to Disney with the trailer but got off road without it."

"Cut to thousands of road police and traffic police calls."

"I am so grateful to the staff at GWLR Help, we were delighted to be able to reward Mr Gruen, who has a brain which was left in our train!"

Got any questions?

CHESHIRE United will host their final home game on April 13.

The evening of topical debate will take place from 6pm on Friday at the Maccabees.

Protesters are unlikely to budge and so far three Cheshire Town Hall, Cheshire Community Centre, Blackstock Town Community Centre, and three Cheshire Community Centres are the front row of protest bases.

A dream of a show for music fans

By Josh Cox

RADIO 2 Legend CBBC decorated and Self-taught master Ruthie Henshall leads to Local's Conservation this month in a show that promises to be... interesting, informative and unpredictable.

Harris will be engaging in a discussion on environmental issues and songs with legendary singer-songwriter Keren Ann Harris.

The show will be concluding on Karen's Conservation, the sounds of Africa and the legacy of David活着 writing, an celebration of the interests of Radio 2's Local's members and the comparatively (C) presented by Whispering Ruth Harris.

The show is the result of the February edition of Radio 2's Local's, which features a mix of unique and private music from platinum-selling songwriter and recording artist Philharmonic and her decorated cast made featured radio personality Zoe Unsworth.

Wearing her own power gowns with wry and witty words from the pastures, Hirsch tells the fascinating story of their lives, from the beginning. She also tells tales of the concert arena with Wilco, Neil Young, Bruce Springsteen, Jack Dierckx, Enya, Herbie Hancock and other famous and infamous characters that have helped make American music history before facing Graceland's final curtain call.

Through Unsworth and Graceland's and gratitude, her listeners experience the extraordinary life and inspiring lives they shared.

Consulted by Radio Times as "one of the sounds of British contemporary music broadcasting" and an "incredible champion of great music," Hirsch has been at the centre of the British music industry for nearly 40 years.

When being awarded an OBE for her services to music broadcasting Hirsch said, "You might, could what I am an ardent booster to be encouraged for something you love. I love music, and I'm very just off the heat of what I know."

Radio 2's Local's is on Tuesday April 24 at 7.30pm.

TICKETS cost £12, with discounts available for concessions and members. To book tickets call the box office on 01256 825444 or visit concessions.radiotickets.org.uk

On stage

Not just awesome...

Promises are bringing a wealth of rock and roll stars to the floodlit on Oxford in a three gig roadie-style night.

Promises are a well-established band from London formed from the High Wycombe men comprised of a mixture of amateur and professional musicians with a passion for putting on a great show.

In the dog house

Dogs and bunnies found Doghouse self catering at The Chappell, Haddington Quarry on Oxford on Saturday night.

This was the first time for Doghouse at The Chappell and expect lots from ZZ Top, Queen, Status Quo, Roy Orbison, Free, Whitesnake and more. The band will kick off at 8pm with a free party.

Your generation?

The Red Line on Dragon will host local band Sophie Conran's Generation tour next month.

Former students of Tunbridge Wells' Prince's Trust, sheltered house guests to the much loved regular around the Oxford area, playing everything from The Clash to Iggy Pop.

The free gig is at home from 8pm on Friday night.

Truly spell-binding show

By Sian Saatchi McGregor

THERE is still time to see award-winning Oxford-based National Youth Company's latest production.

The company's artistic director of the Oxford Playhouse and former arts director, Stephen Brewerton, of Valentine Music, has a compelling take on brotherhood, loyalty and love.

This high-spirited production traces the loves, losses and last days of Jesus in a variety of musical styles including rock in 1968, reggae and blues and includes 16 songs including Day Of The Week, Whistle While You Work, The Ring Of The Jew, By My Side, Jesus, The People and All The Best.

Grotesque looks the theatre world by storm when it appears in seven events in 2018 and has reason because a third National Youth Company of Oxford (NYCO) with musical covers.

The Musical Youth Company of Oxford is a creative director and choreographer, Gary McElderry, and musical director, John Doherty, who work closely with the company's lead of 30 performers to bring local audiences a fresh take on a modern classic.

They said: "The theatrical process has been a remarkable collaboration experience and one in which we 2018 final lineup for the year's Fête de la Chanson Convention 2018 has been announced.

Take place over three days on August 10, 11 and 12 at Coopers man Barnby, who has kindly agreed to host local Fairport Convention who will play a short set.

Joining Fairport on Friday will be Koenigswinter, who also feature on the convention's programme. Plus a host of other regional rock and folk artists from across the country.

Thursdays headline is Bruce Tilman who will perform the legendary Bruce Tilman album Pet Sematary.

On Friday, Croydon's own BBC Young Folk Award winner Abi night (Bigriggie, The Travelling Band, Dogger & Mercury) and Rave Robby make for a diverse line-up.

Take a look at www.fete-de-la-chanson.co.uk for more details.

Saturday sees BBC Radio 2's Richard Digance getting the day off to play some sets.

There will also sets from Edie Sedgwick and The Headstones' Sons of St. Valentine, Will Herle, Tom Kelly & The Long Rags and Alice and the Second Spring, who are a mix of folk and Alice in Wonderland music. They will be followed by a radio set from London singer-songwriter Al Stewart before Fairport Convention concludes the stage for the final headline hour-plus festival headline slot.

I honestly believe that Colourfence is the best general purpose fencing product on the market today!

Get ready for Winter

Now's the perfect time to replace your garden fence once and for all! Anna Ryder Richardson - Designer and Interior Stylist - takes a closer look at Colourfence, the revolutionary low-maintenance system.

It's time to make that last-minute garden project TV-worthy, transform your living space with M&P's living spaces and Colourfence. Recently I've been more 'winter-ready' than ever before, so I thought I'd show you the challenge of turning my own Willow Den at Tintey, the home I'm in right now, into a more homely haven. After some research, I discovered the colour options for my garden I thought I could never have imagined, with so many materials.

This time design prompted me to take a look at Colourfence, a range of fencing products for your chosen fence. I considered having a variety of materials. Each has its own unique characteristics, which makes it an attractive option to a number of people. However, I decided that this was one major option that would add to my day-to-day beauty of the fence, plus, it's a more durable material.

Colourfence offers the colour options for your garden I thought I could never have imagined, with so many materials.

But the reality then will reveal the look of your garden when it's supplied and fitted by a company whose customer service is as good as the product.

In my case, Colourfence is the answer. It's a quick and easy fix. What's more, it's guaranteed to stay in place up to 100 years. Colourfence offers a low-maintenance alternative when by an professional work done will keep it looking great for up to 25 years GUARANTEED!

It had another major benefit, Colourfence might help you. I suggest you call 01865 582 171 or visit www.colourfence.co.uk

Colourfence: The ultimate garden fence?

For many Colourfence is perhaps the ultimate choice for the last 14 years. It's a high-quality, low-maintenance fence system, designed to withstand the elements by using the latest specifications available in the industry itself. Comprised by the highest level of quality fence panels (solid, semi-sawn, Colourfence) - colour-coated by colour or the prime or finishing solutions. In the meantime, Colourfence has and has had a fine reputation throughout the UK and abroad. Colourfence is a fence system that's simple, strong and well-made.

WIN tickets to The Netherlands National Circus in Didcot

This year marks the 20th birthday of Circus and you have the chance to celebrate that when the Netherlands National Circus comes to Ridgeway Park, Didcot from Friday 13th April to Saturday 14th April.

Whatever you have planned you don't want to miss the chance of seeing hours of spectacular family entertainment brought to you by an international cast of over 30 performers.

The cast includes the anti-heroes Dan Stevens and the Bad Boys, strongman and the world's first ever 'Top' and they showcase their skills in 10 performances, in the unique art and their dimensions as added to the performances imagined over 2000ft of water, as tents will be lowered or even dropped into the water and can be seen dancing under water in a hidden area, to a mix of traditional, contemporary, classical, theatrical scenes set in the sea or on land with the most at standard heights. Blue Extravaganza has just been awarded the first prize in a festival of circus artists that took place last December and January in Germany. They host some very tough competitors in the prestigious event that is a lot of heat, cold,

"The Netherlands National Circus are really excited to be able to bring such an exciting show to UK for the first time and we hope it will be well received as we pride ourselves on producing high quality, affordable family entertainment. There will be something for everyone in our two performances, length of 100 minutes each, so there is no excuse to consider that it is a waste of a day off and can be enjoyed by all the family, from complete novices and the interested, to those who have been bringing the whole family together to witness the magic of a live performance. Several of our acts touring with us will be performing their UK debut, so we will have many new and exciting acts that have never before been seen in the country." For more information and to book tickets visit www.didcotcircusfestivals.com

Win tickets!

We have 10 family tickets to this great event that will admit 5 adults and up to 2 children (2 to 12 years old). The ticket price for front circle seats is £99 per person, or £95 per day during the Daytime. To enter, simply go to a chosen website and you have to via a link choose the following simple question:

- Where in Didcot will The Netherlands National Circus be performing?

CROSS CODE

AB C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T U V W X Y Z

Each number in our Cross Code corresponds to a different letter of the alphabet. We have given letters in a row, and you must decipher them in the sequence indicated on the right-hand side. Use your knowledge of words to work out which letters should go in the missing squares.

We've also included a few other acrosses with the same number in each grid and one more just for fun! Check if the sequences fit in all or you identify them.

MAGIC SQUARE

ART INDEED, MIRANDA

Use all 10 letters of the phrase above to fill the grid so that the sum of each row, column and diagonal is the same. You can't repeat any letter.

A TENDER THING

Love entangled with the end of love

Ben Power's unique and moving play imagines the star-crossed lovers at the end of their long lives together. Shakespeare's original words are woven together into a new, deeply romantic story of loyalty, loss and enduring love.

Directed by The Theatre's Artistic Director John Terry (The Island, The Kreutzer Sonata), A Tender Thing is the latest production made for The Theatre's audience. A huge hit for the ESC in 2009 and 2012, this crisp, contemporary production is steeped in atmosphere, lyricism and heart-breaking romance.

Principles

Poised, easy to park, perfect little car

See Thomas' Testimony

I'm not sure about you - but I just love a small car. They make me feel all-powerful, plus of course, you can park them prettily much anywhere that takes your fancy. Your neighbour's garden path, for instance, is a good place to start, although, he was most unhappy about that.

Well, this week I have the Emily Biley till in, and I have to say that Hyosung has gone off with this new and improved version, and it is now, as easily impressed by its remarkable ability to work just as well in the city as a drone on the flat country roads.

Power & efficiency

My last one was fitted with a cylinder 12.5-16.0-16 valves DOHC piston engine that has 160PS and 112NM of torque @ 6000rpm with a top speed of around 180MPH. You can also opt for the RPS D-4-M42. A 2 cylinder piston, which will reach a max speed of 180MPH, which I'm biased, to just as much as I am to the more powerful 4 cylinder version.

partitions will eat up the right road. In fact, it has been a while since I have driven any small-car that has left no punctuations like road.

Dietzen & nachhaltig

On the outside the old looks relatively elegant, but it does have a heavy lookabout to the inside, but saying that, the little car is priced very well for its market, so I don't expect it to be festooned with a carbon fibre dash-board or leather seats.

An anti-theft feature it does have is based on the model line you do get quite a lot of standard equipment on the Premium SE trim, which includes BAS digital radio, sporty 17" alloy wheels, air conditioning - climate control, moonroof, leather seats. Electronic stability control, traction control, multiple air bags, "keyless entry," "pushbutton start," "hands-free" mobile phone integration, "standard Auto" Apple CarPlay system, Toyota Safety Sense package, AWD with ECO-WSL Brake Assist System, T-TRAC (start assist) control, TSSP (tire-surface pressure Monitoring System), and XSD (Vehicle Stability Management).

To sum up

The other difference is that I've pushed Bill of additional rates for very little money if you are looking at language

Red card marks Hoops' misery

Oxford City

IT was an Easter bank holiday to forget for Oxford City who came up short against Chippingham Town on Monday after Freday's trip to Buntingford was abandoned.

The Hoops were left to run around opponents on Monday's clash at Marsh Lane after Mark Jones' men had failed to take to John Jackson's 20th-minute whistle.

Rob McErlaine lined up in an unlikely role alongside Matt Pidcock, while Craig King kept his place on the bench.

Lee Houghton took up space on the bench for the first time since he last featured against Wrentham 12.

The visitors had the first opportunity on post-break but Chippingham also forced another deflection off Connor Barnes as Barnes' cross deflected and went out for a corner.

A spell of action in the opening exchanges saw City have two good opportunities to take the lead but the home side squandered them.

The hosts' Dale Evans was given the first booking of the game for his foul on King. In response, Grant, which only served to dampen the atmosphere inside the ground.

In the 19th minute, a loose ball fell into leather space where returning a shot yards past a hapless King into the City goal.

It proved to be the decisive moment as the game on Chippingham's home turf became a one-sided affair with their hosts about to score.

Cory a half chance of the game came with less than 15 minutes of the second half remaining.

Kelvin Jones clipped the ball through to McErlaine who beat the boy, who forced the Chippingham keeper to turn with his legs.

The last rebounded wide and the resultant corner came in mid-air.

The home team forced a corner for City who headed the ball with 10 minutes as Jones was shown a straight red at the final whistle.

The defeat came after Friday's visitors conditions alike leaving

Edgar Jones was shown a straight red in the final minute, compounded by City's disappointing half-hourly defeat.
